GRAND MARCH PAST OF WINNING CATTLE

grand march past of winning cattle took place around the Keweenaw Half Mile Track, in Victoria Park, at 10 o'clock on Friday morning.

The grand march past of the winning cattle took place around the Keweenaw Half Mile Track, in Victoria Park, at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. The cattle were led by the winners of the various classes, and the quality of the stock was of the highest. Each animal carried the prize ribbon which denoted its ability and quality of breed.

First came the beef breeds headed by the Herefords, the Aberdeen Angus and the Galloways. These came the dairy breeds of Holstein, Jersey and Ayrshires. Each quality of stock in the country, Canadian stock not starve for lack of fat beef or sweet milk rich in butter fat.

Some of the herds were owned by outsiders but still they will no doubt sell a considerable pure bred stock to the breeders of Alberta. The fact that local men of the Edmonton district and other parts of the province were to be seen in the crowd no doubt reflects credit in this part of Canada.

JUDGING OF STOCK IS VERY DIFFICULT

Many Animals to Be Passed Upon and Each Must Receive Due Consideration—Results in Several Classes in the Horse-Work Contests Today.

The judging of the live stock at the exhibition is a difficult task, but it has been well handled this year, but not so well as it will be next year, when the fine new live stock pavilion is finished.

With large herds of horses, cattle and flocks of sheep to judge, it would take a long time if it was all done at the same spot, for there are perhaps thousands of animals on the ground, and each animal must receive fair consideration on its merits.

The management of the fair have wisely arranged for the judging in sections, and several series of stock classes take place simultaneously before the judges of the different departments of live stock.

The horses are divided into three departments. The fashionable harness and high stepping take place before the grandstand in a small ring inside the ring house.

The heavy horses were judged in the enclosure in front of the horse stables. The light horses, the thoroughbreds and the standard breeds and the hackneys had to drive across and they were judged at a corner where two avenues met.

There was fine quality in the cattle exhibits, and it was too bad that they had to be judged behind the stables between the stables and the fence. But it was closer to the stable and much time was saved in the judging, for the judge often moved from stable to stable as the different varieties of cattle were judged. It was easier for the judge, but many people missed this feature who otherwise would have enjoyed the spectacle of a competition for quality and rank in the judgment of live fat short horns or black Aberdeen Angus, the mottled Hereford, or the lively looking Ayrshire or the sweet, pretty Jersey, while the practical "homesteaders" would like to watch the selecting process in the group of dual purpose animals.

Three cattle counts were conducted by three separate judges of the best type, the dairy stock, or the cattle that combine a fair average of flesh and milk and as a result a dual purpose for the new settler on a homestead.

The plan of judging in all the rings was practically the same. The animals entered for that class are called from the stables. As they enter the judging court a member of the staff gives each attendant a large card bearing a number corresponding to the animal's number in the catalogue. The animals line up for inspection by the judge. Each one in turn is put through its paces, walking, standing and trotting. The judge meanwhile giving each animal his verdict.

Those at the foot are called out. Then a survey of the animals is made, and silent mental comparisons are made by the judge until he has finished his promotion examination. One or two men look all around and then the judge smiles, for he feels his work is done. He turns on his heel, waves his hand and takes a rest, for that much have been arranged in order of merit, and he has a record.

The staff officials step forward, collect the big numbered cardboard and describe the animals with the coveted ribbons, first, red; second, blue; third, yellow; fourth, green; fifth, white.

As each variety of animal is judged there follows a contest for the championship and the coveted purple trophy, and the second or reserve trophy of a fine box of ribbon.

The judging of the cattle is much the same except that they do not have to trot up and down. The judge of the sheep and pigs was not done inside, but in the stable.

The jumpers, high steppers, carriage horses and saddlers were judged in a special arena before the spectators on the grandstand. These minor features had to be varied on account of delayed arrival of some of the exhibitors who were coming on the train from other exhibitions on the circuit. But all will

This puts an entirely different complexion on the case as the girls claim they ate the same candy that Miss Ziepe did.

In the face of this development the police find themselves at sea and until the result of the analysis of the stomach is received from Toronto it will not be known what caused the

CANADIAN BISCUIT MERGER.

Mooney Company Has Purchased a Number of Smaller Confectioneries.

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 14.—Conjecture as to the possibility of a biscuit merger has been set afloat by the latest absorption of a competitor of the Mooney Biscuit and Candy Company, of Stratford and Windsor. This company has just bought out the plant and business of the Long Manufacturing Company, of Montreal, one of the oldest and greatest biscuit concerns in the Dominion.

STURING COMPANY, OF MONTREAL, one of the oldest and largest biscuit concerns in the world, has been purchased by the Mooney Company, absorbed into the latter's Canadian branch at Vancouver, and a previous purchase resulted in the acquisition of a large factory at Montreal.

Mr. W. J. Mooney, who has been president of the Mooney Company since its organization in 1902, denies the merger story, but admits the absorption of the Sturing Company. He says that the idea of the string of factories was not his, but that of the late Sir John G. Sturing, who owned the plant and fresh biscuits in each section, vending deterioration in transit.

Two Centenarians Dead.

London, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Elizabeth Drew, who would have been 101 years old on Oct. 11, died at her home, 10, St. John's street, Durham, when she was 100 years old. She was the wife of John Stirling, Durham. When she died, she was the last of her family.

At 101, died Walter Scott, another centurion, died yesterday at the age of 111. He leaves a wife more than 100 years old.

Lord Sefton Visits Canada.

London, Oct. 10.—Lord Sefton, Viscount Sefton, of Lincolnshire, has just arrived in Canada, England, and will be in the British House of Lords, is one of the most distinguished noblemen in the world here on any special mission, and will be very popular over the country.
